

Fast Field Starts Play for Philadelphia Amateur Golf Championship Over the Pine Valley Link

GOLF BALLS DOT PINE VALLEY SKY

77 Hand-Picked Links Men Besiege Jersey Heights in District Championship Round

THIRTY-TWO TO QUALIFY

By SANDY McNEILICK Pine Valley, N. J., June 7.—A hand-picked field started over the hardest test ever demanded to qualify in an engagement for the amateur golf championship of Philadelphia.

They took off as tournament pioneers this morning over the wonder course of the world here at Pine Valley, the first tournament of an official nature that has ever been held on this famous test.

The eyes of the golf nation are turned on this links cathedral here in Jersey today, for Pine Valley has often been mentioned as the setting for a national championship.

On past performance the field would rank something like this: Clary, R. Hoffman, J. Beale, O. Reckner, Kaufman, Marston, Hamilton, W. J. and J. W. Platt, T. Doelger, G. Green, Bobb, Francine, Carr, Huxton, G. Hoffman, Washburn, Reynolds, Norman, Maxwell, Hisey, Mott, W. P. Smith, Tewsbury and Driggs.

There were seventy-seven players with a few belated entries and nearly fifty of these ten-handicap-or-better stars must fall by to be eligible for match play. Favoring Pine Valley players for their knowledge of the course, there are twenty-five who should get in for some of the prize money.

On past performance the field would rank something like this: Clary, R. Hoffman, J. Beale, O. Reckner, Kaufman, Marston, Hamilton, W. J. and J. W. Platt, T. Doelger, G. Green, Bobb, Francine, Carr, Huxton, G. Hoffman, Washburn, Reynolds, Norman, Maxwell, Hisey, Mott, W. P. Smith, Tewsbury and Driggs.

There are several who stand more than even chance of making up the first thirty-two today, players like Maize, Lygett, Schackelford, Williams, Newton, Phillips, Wootton, Bier and Aberthor.

Some Sure Chances Out right down, there are about a dozen players sure to qualify, and another twenty will get in, according to the way the remainder are going.

There are bound to be some surprises on a course like the Pine Valley, where it is as easy to snip down a 4 as a muffed-up 9 at any hole. A course with a different kind of terror is Lido, and in a championship there really is no such system as "padding." It is hard to qualify. This year, with a 90, and scores of 90 got in.

The betting at Pine Valley is that no one will break 160 for the thirty-two who will qualify. The field is many, however, are equally certain that a score of 155, or even better, will take the medal, and that nothing less than 170 will qualify.

Several pairs drew at attention as they drove off this morning. "Hob" Hoffman, winner last year of the Patterson cup, went away with John Beale, Atlantic City finalist, at 8:55. Shortly after Ralph Kaufman, former finalist for the Texas title, and Max Marston, Pennsylvania champion, took off.

Green a Starter "Charlie" Doelp, Lu Lu expert, and Max Marston, Quebec champion, who has won two out of three tournaments starts so far this year, played together, and later on two former Philadelphia champions struck off.

Walter Reynolds tied off with Norman Maxwell, two ancient rivals, and Ed Wootton and Tom Platt, who played together and put the Hisey-Platt combination. The last matter of the rounds starting immediately thereafter.

Woody, indeed, is the man many have spotted to win this tournament. His kind of golf is a winner on a course like this.

Tom Blair, who played together and put the Hisey-Platt combination. The last matter of the rounds starting immediately thereafter.

Woody, indeed, is the man many have spotted to win this tournament. His kind of golf is a winner on a course like this.

Tom Blair, who played together and put the Hisey-Platt combination. The last matter of the rounds starting immediately thereafter.

Woody, indeed, is the man many have spotted to win this tournament. His kind of golf is a winner on a course like this.

Tom Blair, who played together and put the Hisey-Platt combination. The last matter of the rounds starting immediately thereafter.

Woody, indeed, is the man many have spotted to win this tournament. His kind of golf is a winner on a course like this.

Tom Blair, who played together and put the Hisey-Platt combination. The last matter of the rounds starting immediately thereafter.

Woody, indeed, is the man many have spotted to win this tournament. His kind of golf is a winner on a course like this.

Tom Blair, who played together and put the Hisey-Platt combination. The last matter of the rounds starting immediately thereafter.

Woody, indeed, is the man many have spotted to win this tournament. His kind of golf is a winner on a course like this.

Tom Blair, who played together and put the Hisey-Platt combination. The last matter of the rounds starting immediately thereafter.

Woody, indeed, is the man many have spotted to win this tournament. His kind of golf is a winner on a course like this.

Tom Blair, who played together and put the Hisey-Platt combination. The last matter of the rounds starting immediately thereafter.

Tender's Victory Is Technical K. O. in 7th

Question as to the round in which Lew Tender gets credit for a knockout against Bobby Barrett at the Phillies' ball park last night has started numerous arguments today.

As the bell rang ending the sixth round while referee Taylor was still counting, the decision will go down in the record books as a technical knockout in the seventh round. Taylor had counted out to nine when the bell sounded. After a minute, during which time there was a lot of excitement both in the ring and outside, the bell sounded again and the start of the seventh.

As Barrett was unable to toe the mark Tender gets credit for a seventh-round knockout.

UPPER DARBY HIGH TRACK MEET TODAY

Grade-School Pupils Compete on Memorial Field—Continue Carnival Tomorrow

MANY EVENTS ON PROGRAM

The sixth annual track and field meet of the Upper Darby High School will be held this afternoon and tomorrow.

The elementary schools, which include grades one to seven, and take in the schools of the Upper Darby Township, will stage their competition this afternoon.

Tomorrow the students of the high school will contest. Both meets will be held on Memorial Field, the home of the Upper Darby High School. It is situated on North Lansdowne avenue opposite the Arlington Cemetery. It is only about five minutes walk from the Sixty-ninth street terminal.

Banners and flags are the prizes which will be awarded to the various grammar school winners this afternoon. These banners are awarded from year to year and the winning school have an opportunity of displaying them in their trophy room for one annum.

The events entered are the fifty and seventy-five-yard dashes, quarter-mile and half-mile run, high jump, broad jump, hop, skip and jump, and a number of minor events such as basketball race. There will also be fancy dances by different schools.

FAUQUIER POLO QUARTET WILL PLAY HERE TODAY

Virginians Meet Bryn Mawr Freebooters at Bala

The famous Fauquier County Country Club of Virginia, will meet the Bryn Mawr Freebooters in a polo game at the Philadelphia Country Club, Bala, this afternoon.

In the game today, Philadelphia fans will have a chance to see General Bethel, Military Attaché of the British Government at Washington, play. He was the youngest major general in the British Army during the late war and is considered an expert player.

Yesterday afternoon, in the heaviest goal-scoring match of the present season, the Bryn Mawr Foxhunters, who were defeated by the Philadelphia Country Club, first team in a second Morrellton Cup match. The score was 22 to 10.

Fred Rose, of the Country Club, was the individual star of the game. He was in splendid form, scoring eight goals. He scored eight of his team's points.

What May Happen In Baseball Today

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Pittsburgh, W. L. P. C. Win 1-0, Loss 0-1, Tie 0-0. Philadelphia, W. L. P. C. Win 1-0, Loss 0-1, Tie 0-0.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York, W. L. P. C. Win 1-0, Loss 0-1, Tie 0-0. Boston, W. L. P. C. Win 1-0, Loss 0-1, Tie 0-0.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE

Minneapolis, W. L. P. C. Win 1-0, Loss 0-1, Tie 0-0. St. Paul, W. L. P. C. Win 1-0, Loss 0-1, Tie 0-0.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Philadelphia, W. L. P. C. Win 1-0, Loss 0-1, Tie 0-0.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York, W. L. P. C. Win 1-0, Loss 0-1, Tie 0-0.

TROTTERS GO AFTER BIG PURSE TODAY

Horae Dealers' Sweepstake Will Be Feature Harness Race at Belmont Track

THREE EVENTS ON CARD

Lovers of light-harness racing will get their 1922 taste of their favorite sport this afternoon on the Belmont one-mile track, where the eleventh annual dealers' sweepstake races will be held.

Three races are on the card announced by Al Saunders, who manages the meet, and as the events are the only ones of the kind in this section of the country they annually attract big crowds.

The dealers' sweepstake race is the major race on the program. As in the past, it will be for trotters eligible to the 2:30 class with matinee, non-win-or-time records not faster than 2:14 1/4.

This race on former occasions has been worth more than $1500 to the winner, which makes it a stake of such richness that the best of the show-class trotters from this and surrounding States compete for the big prize. Each nomination takes $50, $10 when the stake closed March 20, $15 April 24, $10 on May 22. Fifteen dollars was paid this morning.

The Horae Dealers' Stakes will be raced under the new Union Association's rules this afternoon. With the three events raced at mile heats, best three in five, to end with the fifth heat, unless a class trotter is killed, in which case the horse so tied will race an extra heat. The winner takes the entire purse, with all other starters in the dealers' race sharing alike in 50 per cent of the gate receipts. Last year all starters except the winner received $75. The initial race in 1912 was won by Bonnie L. and netted $700. This is the lowest it has ever been.

Direct Vista in 1914 In 1914 Direct Vista won it and $1080. In 1917 Trux Orange was the winner, took $1,935. Joseph Watts won in 1918 and captured $1280. In 1919 it was worth $1570 to Axle Todd, the winner. Each year a handsome sterling cup is presented to the winner by the gate receipts. Last year the initial early closing stake race in this section of the country.

The other two events on this afternoon's race card are the Belmont Stake for 2:15 class trotters, and the Key-Stone Stake for 2:15 class pacers. In both of the above stakes the nominator pays $25 entrance, in four payments on the same dates as the Dealers' Sweepstake. The winner takes the entire purse and $10 the third payment, with $5 the day of the race. The winners receive 60 per cent of the amount subscribed, second horse 30 per cent and third 10 per cent. The races are also mile heats, best three in five, to end at the fifth heat. Hand-some silver cups also go to the winners of the Belmont and Keystone races.

HIGH SCORES RECORDED IN LANCASTER SHOOT

Cochran and Napier, of Penna., With 158, Tops Field of Over 150

Lancaster, Pa., June 7.—With more than 150 shooters in the clay target contest of the annual tournament of the Pennsylvania State Sportsmen's Association opened auspiciously, with the Lancaster Athletic Club acting host to the event.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

The Western entries that are making a strong bid for the title are Fred Cochran, of Milton, with 157; J. W. Braddock, of Lancaster, with 156; and H. E. Bradlock, of Dornham, both with 156. Both won trophies in their respective classes. The feature of the meet today was the two-man team race, which was won by J. R. Johnston, Jr., and William Berlin, of the Wilkesburg Gun Club, near Pittsburgh. They scored 196.

The pair was tied for the trophy honors by Frank Troeh, of the Pacific Coast, and Fred Schuber, of the New York A. C. crack shot, Walter Posey, the local favorite, shared second place honors with William Berlin, of Wilkesburg, and G. H. Martin, of Philadelphia. The latter took a 90 running for the title honor. Steve Crothers, present State champion, was right in the running with a 156, the best of the day.

'BODY BLOW' TENDLER; 'FOUL,' CLAIMS BARRETT

'A Left to Solar Plexus Did It,' Says Victorious South-paw—Dr. 'Buck' Wharton Explains Punch That Scored Knockout for Leonard's July 20 Opponent

By LOUIS H. JAFFE

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Witnessed last night's contest from a box. He said only one thing was fair. So did Mayor Butler, of Atlantic City, and Frank Waterston, of New York; Norman Feinberg, local spectator at all big bouts; Doc Bagley, of New York; Willie Jackson, the lightweight, and almost all of the New York boxing writers at the ringside, agreed that there was no low punch.

A crowd of about 18,000 witnessed the bout last night, which was the official opening of the 1922 open-air boxing season in Philadelphia.

Today's Scholastic Games and Results of Yesterday

Germantown High vs. Norristown High. Norristown, 6-2. 6-0.

Public High School vs. Longfellow School. Puncheon, 11-9.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

St. Luke's School, 6; Chestnut Hill Academy, 0.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

Yale-Catcher for Big League

New Haven, Conn., June 7.—Jimmy Kerman, catcher on the Yale baseball team, is about to accept one of the offers made him by big league teams.

BRILLIANT TENNIS BY MISS TOWNSEND